Abbot To Name Principal

Abbot Academy trustees will confirm tomorrow appointment of a man, one of the youngest private school headmasters in the country, as principal of the local secondary school for girls.

Recommended by the selection committee is Donald A. Gordon, 34, who has been headmaster of Barstow School in Kansas City, Mo. He will arrive later this month to fill the position left open since last November when Mrs. Alexander Crane left the school for a principalship in Greece. Mrs. Crane has since returned to teach at Winsor School in Boston.

Gordon is a graduate of Phillips Academy and holds a bachelor of arts degree in English from Yale University. He received a master's in American civilization from the University of Pennsylvania in 1962 after which he pursued doctoral studies at Sidwell Friends School, Washington, D. C.

He has been headmaster at Barstow since 1965, prior to which he was at Sidwell School. The educator has taught English, Latin and social studies at Thayer Academy in Braintree and has also School administrators have decided against hiring a fulltime maintenance superintendent to take charge of the new high school building by Nov. 1, as recommended by Building Chairman Robert B. McIntyre and Town Manager Richard Bowen.

They will instead assign a regular custodian to handle advance work there in preparation for occupancy of the building in December. Other custodians will come on duty later.

John Barberian, general services supervisor, explained to the School Committee Tuesday that the superintendent's office did not want to create a supervisory position for the high school because of the possibility that it lead to union demands for new positions in other buildings.

Mrs. Irene Crane of 204 Sutton Hill Rd., North Andover, has been hired by the School Committee as a first grade teacher for South School, filling a vacancy. The new teacher has been completing her student teaching requirement at Meadow School in Middleton. She has a degree in elementary education with a minor in English. Mrs. Crane will begin work on Nov. 15 at a salary of $5600.

Wonder and Apprehension

An imaginative "witch" sparked Halloween with fun for the children of one Andover neighborhood Tuesday evening. A long line of astronauts and pirates, hoboes and queens, goblins and hippies waited patiently for a chance to taste the brew in her kettle. For obvious reasons, this is one Good Witch who chooses to remain anonymous. She is hostess annually to quite a crowd.

River Compromise Is Possible

Officials of four Greater Lawrence communities came to no firm conclusions Wednesday on a solution for their division of opinion over how to go about forming a collective pollution control district.

However, Town Manager, Richard Bowen of Andover said, following the two-hour session,

TM Warrant In This Issue

The warrant for the special Town Meeting on Nov. 13 is printed on page 25 of this issue of the TOWNSMAN.

The Board of Selectmen decided this week, however, to prepare a supplemental warrant of three additional articles.

One will provide for the land takings necessary in connection with the widening of roads etc. in connection with preparations for Gillette Co. construction in Lowell Junction. A second article will give voters a chance to consider a state proposal for establishing of a Merrimack pollution control district and the third will propose appropriation of $3000 to rent space for the welfare department outside town Hall.

Manager Bowen said the atmosphere at Wednesday's meeting of Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover delegates was "friendly" and that there was an honest attempt at solving the problem.

Attending from Andover were Manager Bowen, Chairman Philip K. Allen, and Selectmen Sidney P. White, William Stewart and Robert Watters as well as Water & Sewer Supt, Donald Bassett.

that it is his present conviction that a compromise will be reached eventually. He has previously been far from optimistic about this possibility.

Reporting on the conference, held in a so-called last ditch effort to resolve the representation issue that has blocked earlier agreement on a district proposal, Bowen said that even though no conclusions had been reached when the meeting adjourned, the way was left open for still another compromise debate.

Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Andover Board of Selectmen, proposed that the group adjourn until someone recalls them to present a specific formula resolving differences.

At the luncheon conference, Mayor Daniel Kiley of Lawrence said he felt his city had compromised by agreeing to accept a 3-2-1-1 ratio for the governing board of the control district. He pointed out that on the basis of population, Lawrence could have insisted on 6-2-1-1 representation.

This brought the suggestion that the 6-2-1-1 formula be adopted with the proviso that board members from three of the four communities in the combine concur on all matters pertaining to six key items listed in draft legislation circulated as a sample for district formation by the State Water Resources Commission. Under terms of the state legislation, a two thirds majority approval would be required before, for example, eminent domain proceedings could be undertaken, or capital debt in excess of $100,000 incurred.

School Officials Seeking Public Bargaining Sessions

The School Committee bargaining team is exploring with negotiators for Andover Education Assn, this week the possibility of opening future collective bargaining sessions to the public.

The decision to initiate such a discussion was made at Tuesday's School Committee meeting.

Chairman Louis Galbiati asked the board for a motion that would authorize SC negotiators to "explore" the head of the AEA bargaining team the possibility of scheduling open meetings.

When he was unable to draw such a motion from the five-member board, the chairman stepped down to offer the motion himself.

Committeeman William A. Doherty said he favors open sessions but stated that he felt the school board could vote to have public meetings without consulting the AEA. Committeewoman Virginia H. Cole agreed.

Nursery Proposal Shelved

School Committee Chairman Louis Galbiati failed Tuesday in his attempt to win immediate approval for his plan to introduce a pilot program for four-year-olds in the public schools of Andover.

Instead, the majority effectively delayed further consideration for an indefinite period by voting to appoint a study committee which will have until Nov. 1, 1968, to make a recommendation.

The possibility of an annual operating cost of $200,000, the certain need for additional classrooms to handle the four-year-old population, the demands for improvements in existing programs and the fact that the results of studies attempting to evaluate the benefits of Early Bird education are largely inconclusive were all advanced as arguments for delaying action.

Voting with the majority were Virginia H. Cole, William A. Doherty and Dr. Richard Katz. Chairman Galbiati recorded his opposition, but Frederick Fitzgerald cast the only official negative vote.

Both Supt, Edward I. Erickson and Asst. Supt, Vaughn Clapp advised the board against addition now of a nursery year to the public school program, even on the voluntary basis suggested by the chairman. Their arguments were reinforced by opinions of William H. Harding, principal of Pike School, who appeared at the request of Dr. Galbiati to discuss the advantages of giving youngsters an early start on their education.

Harding oversees a nursery program at the local independent school he administers. In his prepared statement, however, he pointed out that generalizations applying to Pike's experience with four-year-olds might not be a valid basis for action in public schooling. First, he said, placement in the Pike program is selective. "We insist," he explained, "that children be physically and emotionally prepared to meet the

Vo-Tech Use Is Discussed

William Iggoe, guidance director for Andover schools, told the School Committee Tuesday that he believes Andover could better utilize the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational-Technical High School if boys could be permitted to delay a decision to enter the Vo-Tech school until the end of the 10th grade and then begin a four-year program that would incorporate what is now a post-graduate course at the specialized school.

He said also that Andover will benefit when the program is expanded to include courses for girls.

Hogan Predicts Record Sales, Earnings

Standard International Corp. of Andover, expects to achieve record sales and earnings in the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1968, President Daniel E. Hogan stated at the company's annual meeting. In the prior year, Standard International reported earnings of $1.60 per common share on domestic sales of $58,388,000.

For the first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, Standard International's sales rose slightly to $14,451,000 from $14,376,000 the year before, while net earnings amounted to $488,000 or $.23 per share, compared with $647,000, or $.30 per share a year ago.

Hogan pointed out that the first quarter has been traditionally the company's weakest and, in addition, earnings were this year affected by the general softness in the economy. He stated further that, based on the accelerating pace of business in September, increasingly high backlogs throughout the corporation and the "excellent prospects" for the balance of the year, the company anticipates a "healthy increase" in both sales and earnings for the full fiscal year.

The SIC president also announced that the company has completed arrangements for acquisition of Miller Dial & Name Plate Co., El Monte, Calif., manufacturers of nameplates, dials, scales and panels, for an undisclosed amount of cash. The acquisition of Monarch Aluminum Manufacturing Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, has been consummated and the acquisition of Club Aluminum Products Co., of LaGrange, Ill., which is subject to the approval of Club's stockholders - should be concluded by the middle of December on a pooling-of-interests basis, Hogan continued.

The board of directors voted the regular quarterly cash dividend of $.06 per share, payable Nov. 20, 1967, and also announced a stock dividend of 4 percent payable Dec. 6, 1967. The record date for both dividends is Nov. 6, 1967.

Taking sharp exception to their view was Frederick Fitzgerald, chief negotiator for the School Committee. He said spokesmen for the two groups agreed to a list of procedures for negotiations before the sessions got underway and that one of them stipulated that all bargaining sessions would be held behind closed doors. He urged the committee refrain from taking unilateral action and said, "It may cost us something in popularity and cause some embarrassment, but I still think when we enter into an agreement, we should honor it."

Mrs. Cole commented that the procedures agreed to by the negotiators had never been voted by the School Committee as a whole and she claimed five of the 10 pre-bargaining commitments made had already been broken by one side or the other, and she could see no reason for not adding a sixth.

Dr. Richard Katz agreed with Mrs. Cole that open sessions would be desirable, but he voted with Dr. Galbiati and Mr. Fitzgerald because of "principle." Mrs. Cole lists the following procedures which she says have been violated:

- One states that meetings should be held on successive Wednesdays for two hours. Several Wednesdays have been skipped, according to the committeewoman.

- Another states that both the AEA and the School Committee shall work through a single spokesman at all bargaining sessions. Violated, so Mrs. Cole says, by the School Committee.

- A third restricts attendance at meetings to previously designated representatives, but Mrs. Cole says the AEA has sent delegates without prior announcement on more than one occasion.

- Also violated, an agreement that all proposals to be considered at a given meeting should be presented one week in advance.

- And the fifth states that the minutes of each meeting should be exchanged by recorders of each group for discussion and possible revision.

New Law To Affect Students

"Motor vehicles registered out of state and driven by non-residents enrolled as students in Massachusetts must be identified by a decal displayed on the upper center of the windshield," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today. The new law governing non-resident student motorists becomes effective on Nov. 27.

"This is another step forward in identifying and locating drivers and motor vehicles using Massachusetts highways and, in cases of accidents and violations, will greatly facilitate investigations by the Registry and police departments," he said.

The Registrar explained that non-resident students at our schools and colleges who drive out-of-state registered vehicles for more than 30 days in the aggregate in the Commonwealth between Sept. 1 and Aug. 31 of the following year must file a statement in triplicate under penalties of perjury with the police department where the school or college is located. The police department will send one copy to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles and one copy to the student's school or college which will then issue a numbered or lettered decal to the student and compile and maintain a register on such students. A fine is provided of not more than $50 for students who fail to file and not more than $100 for schools and colleges for each offense. Forms are available at schools and colleges.

The statement seeks the following information: registration number and make of the motor vehicle and state or country of registration, name and address of owner, names and addresses of all insurers providing liability insurance covering operation, legal residence and residence of student while attending school or college and name and address of the school or college attended.

demands of the schedule." Secondly, he said, Pike reserves the right to insist that parents withdraw children if it becomes clear they are not ready for the experience, a prerogative the school has exercised.

Harding said that the purpose of the class at Pike is to prepare children for academic work, adding that it has been the experience there "that a child who has had a sound nursery school experience is, in fact, better able to begin reading and number work at the kindergarten only one year later."

Continuing, Harding said that "An evaluation of the nursery experience makes it clear that the children benefit." He added however, that the degree of benefit is not at all clear. Harding said they are sure at Pike that there is carry-over beyond the four-year-old level and that the influence of the early start has some bearing on the degree of success of the individual child at least through the first grade. In the later discussion, he went on to say that by the third or fourth grade most youngsters who have not had the advantage of a four-year-old program catch up.

The private school educator concluded his formal statement with the following comment: "Whether or not Andover would provide the best laboratory for the (four-year-old) experiment or can afford the expenditure of manpower alone on this phase of education must ultimately rest with the decision of the School Committee and the voters. My personal opinion would be that the emphasis might well be placed in already proven, but needy, academic areas - that time, energies and ultimately the voters' cash be applied to ease existing problems and further strengthen the academic, social and physical programs offered to the older boys and girls."

Dr. Galbiati triggered the discussion by proposing a motion to authorize implementation of a pilot Early Bird program and asking that someone introduce it. Frederick Fitzgerald complied and Committeeman Doherty made the second. Mrs. Cole proposed at one point an amendment tabling the question, but this was opposed by Fitzgerald and Doherty. Doherty finally made the amendment which established the study committee.

In the discussion with Mr. Harding, Chairman Galbiati referred to the opinion of Benjamin S. Bloom, professor of education at the University of Chicago, that general intelligence appears to develop as much from conception to the age of four as it does in the 14 years from four to 18, to which the Pike School principal replied that "A good deal of that side of the argument is based on hypotheses not yet proved."

Administrators Erickson and Clapp discussed practicalities rather than theory in presenting their views.

Supt. Erickson said that it was difficult for him to oppose the committee chairman "because I know how strongly he feels," but he said "I honestly feel that with present demands for space etc., I cannot be enthusiastic." He added however, that he thought the door should not be closed.

Discussing feasibility, Asst. Supt. Clapp said that the first problem would be to get teachers trained to handle four-year olds. Colleges are just beginning to train specialists in this field, he said.

He added that it would be difficult to tackle an Early Bird program now when our elementary schools are deeply involved with an examination of their educational philosophy and when the town has just made a long range commitment to an individual progress program.

It was Clapp who presented the financial statistics. He told the board it would cost about $10,000 per room, exclusive of transportation, to offer a program for four-year-olds and he estimated that it would require an annual salary budget of about $128,000 a year to provide classes for the four-year-old population in Andover. Investment of another $30,000 to $40,000 for supplies would be required in the first year and about $10,000 on an annual basis. Transportation, he estimated, would run about $20,000 to $30,000.

The total annual operating cost would approximate $200,000 he said, adding that he could not estimate the cost of providing classroom space.

To Dr. Galbiati's comment of "I think we have to start somewhere," Clapp replied: "If something like this is done, I don't know who is going to do it. I know I don't have time."

Dr. Katz wondered aloud if the people of Andover would be of a mind to raise the tax rate $2 just for a program for four-year-olds to which the chairman responded that if parents felt the program was good, they would likely support it. "Two dollars," he said, "is a small part of the tax rate . . . if it makes the difference between a good school system and a poor one." Unless we start on a pilot basis, he said, we will never know what we should do.

Mrs. Cole told the chairman that it is her impression that the public is opposed to an Early Bird Program at this time and said she believes the public should be given time to register an opinion. She reminded Galbiati that he was much in favor of soliciting public opinion on the A Better Chance program when it was proposed and said that she felt he should take the same position on the Early Bird issue.

Harvard Names Andover Men To Committees

The board of overseers of Harvard University has appointed 225 residents of Massachusetts six of them from Andover, to visiting committees for 1967-68. The 41 visiting committees provide a link between the various University departments and all friends of the University.

Beauty MAGIC

By Mary

This is the most relaxed, comfortable and non-conforming age we live in, especially for our teenagers. They will wear anything and everything that they feel is "way out" or "kookie" or just "crazy, Man!" However your people should not get too carried away. There are certain times when blue jeans and a sloppy shirt are appropriate—other times when femininity should not be smothered. The short, short skirts are fine on most teenage girls who have a nice figure and are not too tall. But, please mothers, take a peek once in awhile to see exactly what your daughter is wearing and where her hemline is.

The same thing applies to hairstyles...it is not always to one's best advantage to follow the latest craze. The stylists at CAPILO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd. Shawsheen-Andover can best determine a style most flattering to you. Tel. 475-1639. We use the new color machine...reduces process to minutes.

HELPFUL HINT:

Always keep the keyboard of your piano open to prevent ivory from turning yellow. To clean ivory and ebony keys rub with piece of silk moistened, but not soaked, in alcohol.

Attends Conference

Dr. Werner N. Grune, professor and chairman, department of civil engineering, Merrimack College, attended the American Society of Civil Engineers, national meeting on water resources engineering held in New York earlier this month.

If you have an ACCIDENT

There are few occasions in life when you need a friend more than when you are involved in an automobile accident. We'd like to be that friend in need. You hope—and so do we—that accident never happens to you. But if it does, we'll be as close as the dial on the nearest telephone. See us for auto insurance that never stalls in rough going.

teacher in the South School has been accepted by the School Committee. Mrs. McAndrews has been rehired as a part-time teacher.

Superintendent of Schools Edward I. Erickson told the School Committee Tuesday that he would be able to comply with Town Manager Richard Bowen's request for a school budget by Dec. 1, with particulars by Jan. 15, provided that the School Committee acts on the salary scales soon.

The hiring of Mrs. Edna Warwick as a part-time secretary in the junior high school guidance department was approved Tuesday night by the School Committee.

Interviewing will begin now, according to Supt. Erickson, for a principal for the new Bancroft School. The principal is to be hired before the end of the present school year.

Hall rent for use of school buildings will rise to $2.50 an hour; The present $2 rate, which covers the custodian's pay, is less than the regular hourly daytime rate for custodians.

High School dance rules will apply in the future to all teenage dances held at the school, by vote of the School Committee.

Superintendent Erickson pointed out that while the school and the committee encourage the use of school facilities by town organizations, they feel that groups who organize themselves in order to hold dances at the school should observe the same standards of chaperonage and behavior that apply to regular school dances.

Report cards for Andover High School students will be mailed to the home this year, according to Principal Philip F. Wormwood. The use of a computer will permit the preparation of reports for mailing that will not have to be returned to the school.

The first reports will be mailed out early this month, the principal said.

The Outing Club of Andover Institute of Business, under the supervision of adviser Arnold Ball Jr. of 74 Summer St., aided earlier this month with the rescue of a South Shore seminary student who had fallen from Mt. Lincoln, Franconia Notch, N. H.

It took two hours to reach the semi-conscious man.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be given at Andover High School at 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 24.

AHS Principal Philip F. Wormwood has announced that students who expect to complete their secondary school requirements and to enter college in 1969 can register now to participate.

The Gillette Safety Razor Co. has completed negotiations for 146 acres of land adjacent to Route 93 as the site of a new warehousing and packaging facility.

Construction will begin in the near future and that completion is expected by Dec. 31, 1968.

Some weeks ago, the company identified Andover as the site offering the greatest potential for expansion. The provision of adequate access roads, water supply and sewerage needed to make the area acceptable was assured when the town agreed to expend approximately $1,000,000 for these improvements.

Editorial Comment

Too Early A Bird

The School Committee has laid to rest, for the time being, the proposal of Chairman Louis Galbiati that Andover initiate the first four-year-old public school program in the Commonwealth.

By the end of the discussion at Tuesday's School Committee meeting, Dr. Galbiati stood virtually alone in his insistence that administrators should ready a pilot Early Bird program for introduction here. Even his expert witness, Headmaster William Harding from Pike School, offered the personal opinion that school department "time, energies and ultimately, the voters' cash, be applied to ease existing problems. . ."

The committee majority wisely settled the matter by voting to give a sub-committee one year to study the desirability and feasibility of offering a pre-school year to four-year-olds.

Dr. Galbiati's ambitions for Andover's school system are laudable, but he was premature with his proposal for an Early Bird program. Even if time and experimentation prove to the satisfaction of expert educators that a 13th year of school has long-range advantages for youngsters, this community must rack up some other accomplishments before it gets involved.

When our present system is dynamic throughout, and abreast of the times, we can begin to think of expansion. Andover is only just beginning to move in the direction of an individual progress or non-graded elementary program, even though this approach to education is well established in many public school systems around the country. The use of team teaching as a device for effective utilization of teaching talent and programs to encourage independent study by students are techniques for education that are still in the experimental stages in our public school system. Good as our schools are, they are far from the ultimate.

The public will undoubtedly support the resolve of our school administrators to give breadth to the 12-year program now offered Andover youngsters. They could have made headlines with a recommendation that Andover become an Early Bird pacesetter, but they would not have made sense.

Keeping Young

A great many things die in autumn and some hibernate, but fall is the season of creation too.

There is no other time of year when it is half so satisfying to organize, to get something going, to give birth, and so, invariably, as temperatures drop, aspirations bring forth new committees, study groups, clubs and other forms of life that are dependent upon enthusiasm for their existence.

Many such organizations are ill-fated, of course. Hence it is an appropriate season for repeating a list of suggestions for organizational survival once drafted by John Gardner, now U. S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

If they are to achieve longevity, new born groups must, said Sec. Gardner:

- Be able to recruit and develop talent effectively.
- Be a hospitable place for ideas.
- Have built-in provisions for self-criticism.
- Have the fluidity to change structures established for reasons that no longer exist.
- Have an adequate system of internal communication.
- Have some means of combating the process by which rules books get fatter and ideas fewer.
- Have a way of preventing vested interests from causing constriction and progressive atrophy.
- Be interested in what it is going to be, much more than what it was.
- Make it clear to its members that what they do really matters.

It is a formula that could just as easily be used by governments, and the agencies they spawn, as a check list for detecting signs of bureaucratic hardening of the arteries.

"Good management people are, first of all, good listeners," remarked Mr. Paul J. Cupp, chairman of the board of Acme Markets, Inc. "Only by listening can a person learn what is in the minds and hearts of his fellow employees. He can learn nothing by trying to do all the talking himself."

Nature's Ways

Congress Contemplates Subsidizing Disaster

Congress seems on the verge of subsidizing disaster.

For some reason, the common sense observation that any house built on a flood plain certainly will be flooded seems to have escaped the wisdom of the U. S. Senate. By its definition, a flood-prone or flood-plain area is land that a river flows over at some season. It is not unusual for a house built in a flood plain to be flooded seven times in fourteen years. In fact, many of them are reasonably safe only in drought years.

Due to the inevitable loss, private insurance companies are wary of flood insurance. While it is true that a house may burn the day after a fire insurance policy has been written, it is unlikely. But a house in a flood plain is a different matter. It is certain to be flooded before enough premiums can be collected to offset the risk.

Since private companies are unwilling to squander assets on certain losses, the U. S. Senate recently passed a plan for government-subsidized flood insurance. It would underwrite private flood insurance by subsidizing premiums and meeting "catastrophic losses" in areas that have suffered flood damage in the past. U. S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey, sponsor, described the plan as filling "a serious gap in insurance protection for residents of flood-prone areas."

The Wall Street Journal was more frank in viewing the bill as promoting low-cost housing developments in flood plains. The Providence Journal, which saw "much merit in the plan", asked why the new law does not contain stiffer regulations "than a plea to 'discourage' new building in flood-prone areas? Why should the federal government undertake to help meet the losses of reckless builders, many of whom know perfectly well the risks they face in putting structures in reach of normal flooding?"

Common discussion of such programs as flood insurance seems to overlook the fact that it is not dollars but humans that live in the houses on a flood plain. When the time for paying off the policy arrives, the policy-holder often is so anxious to see the claim ad-juster arrive in a rescuing row-boat that he forgets to ask if the adjuster brought his checkbook.

Conservation groups such as the Massachusetts Audubon Society long have worked to end housing construction in flood plains. When it rains, the extra water in a river must go somewhere. In general, man has the choice of permitting the water to rise naturally into the lowland flood plain, or, he can constrict the flood plain and cause the rising water to flood downstream cities and their industrial complexes - which too often are built on old flood plains. Even the so-called flood-control dams operate on the principal of flooding flood plains above the dam.

The bill which the Senate sent to the House provided government aid to the limit of $2-1/2 billion to insure houses to a maximum of $15,000 and their contents to $5,000. Such measures make it easy to see what is happening to our money. With just a little imagination, one can see what is happening to our rivers.

structure had its completion schedule altered by more than six months due to deficiencies in the composition of concrete piles upon which it shall rest.

Had these occurred in public structures, what a noise would have arisen.

What Our Readers Say

Judases of our land, Treat them as Judas was, and clear up this mess of unpatriotic crackpots we have in Andover, and keep Andover always a "patriotic sober industrious town."

Robert Deyermond
91 Elm St.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
A remarkable statement in Henry Wolfson's otherwise informative letter in the Oct. 19th Townsman is "the news has been full of instances in the past few years of modern government buildings falling apart."

Lest we conclude from that that it's mostly government buildings that fall apart before their time, attention is directed to the record of structures built with private capital.

Every urban renewal project is overpowering testimony to the inadequacies of buildings privately built. Many of those who live in houses built privately during the past 20 years can testify to lacks in quality. Recently a magnificent banking house in Boston was about to open its doors when great breaks appeared in its impressive transom.

More recently, what may prove to be the world's biggest business

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
You sound like our town manager when you conclude, without furnishing any evidence, that Andover needs yet another large auditorium.

And, without furnishing any evidence, I conclude that we don't. So far, neither you nor I is being rational and neither of us is giving the long-suffering public any enlightenment on the subject.

But there is a simple way to produce relevant facts from which the hard-pressed taxpayers can draw their own conclusion. I propose that we develop two sets of basic facts.

First, let's make an inventory of all the town's public meeting places, large and small, with the seating capacity of each. (For example, Memorial Hall library has three meeting places.)

Next, let's find out the frequency with which each meeting place was used, at or near capacity, by the public during the calendar year 1966.

From these two sets of facts, representing supply and demand, we should be able to draw rational conclusions regarding our real needs.

Isn't this procedure better journalism than feuding with unsubstantiated opinions?

Atherosclerosis Is No.1 Killer In U.S.

J. Warren Harthorne, M.D.
Chief, Cardiology Department
Massachusetts General Hospital

The major cause of death and disability in North America today continues to be "hardening of the arteries". This process, or atherosclerosis as it is more scientifically known, probably begins in most people at birth, or even before, and may affect any or all of the arteries of the body. The arteries are blood vessels through which oxygen-laden blood is carried from the heart to various organs and parts of the body after it has been "purified" by passage through the lungs.

Much is known in a descriptive way about this disease, but the underlying cause and the means of avoiding atherosclerosis continues to elude scientific investigators despite extensive research. As the atherosclerotic process progresses, the lining membrane of the involved artery becomes thickened and various fatty substances are deposited within the arterial wall beneath it. This tends to occur at first in patches and affects various arteries throughout the body to different degrees.

The opening of the artery becomes progressively narrowed as the local accumulation of fat and thickening of the inner lining develops. These lesions may occur singly or may coalesce to produce long sections of irregularly narrowed arteries. They tend to occur in areas of more turbulent blood flow, as where vessels branch; they are more common in people with diabetes, high blood pressure, elevated blood cholesterol, or a family history of arterial disease; they occur more frequently in smokers than in non-smokers. The condition may begin in early childhood and progress slowly through-out adolescence and adult life.

Although the condition begins to develop at an early age, it seldom produces symptoms until it leads to critical reduction or actual blockage of a vessel lumen. The nature of the symptoms which may develop from atherosclerosis depends entirely on the vessels affected and the severity of the arterial narrowing. Not infrequently, a marked degree of arterial narrowing may be found at autopsy which did not produce any symptoms during life. An examination of the hearts of a large number of American casualties of the Korean conflict gave visible evidence of atherosclerosis of the coronary arteries in 70% with a severe degree of atherosclerotic narrowing in 20% despite an average age of only 22 years and the absence of any symptoms.

As the narrowing of the vessel progresses, a variety of symptoms may develop depending upon the area of the body affected. Involvement of the head vessels may produce dizziness, speech problems or stroke; involvement of the heart or coronary vessels may be associated with recurrent chest pain (angina) or result in irreversible damage to a portion of the heart as with a "heart attack"; involvement of the vessels to the legs frequently results in muscle cramps which occur with walking; involvement of the arteries to the kidneys may be associated with a form of high blood pressure. Diseases of the heart and circulatory system now claim nearly one million American lives per year and the annual cost to the economy is estimated to be several billion dollars.

Although the exact causes and, hence prevention, of atherosclerosis continues to elude investigators, factors associated with its progression are defined and serve as the basis of current treatment programs.

Hay Scales Holiday Sale Is This Month

Because of enthusiastic public response last year, Hay Scales Exchange Inc. of North Andover has decided that its Christmas Sale this year will be bigger and run longer than previously.

The Sale will still be held at North Andover Country Club, on Great Pond Road, but in a larger area and it will run all day for two days. The event opens at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 14 and will continue that day until 5 p.m. On Wednesday, Nov. 15, the doors will open at 10 a.m. and close at 2 p.m. Featured, as usual, will be the unique Christmas decorations for which the Exchange is well known and a variety of hand-crafted children's clothes, toys and knit wear as well as innumerable other gifts for all ages and occasions.

The Hay Scales Exchange is a non-profit organization serving the community and more than 350 consignors who have added many new wares for the display this year. There will, for example, be a wider variety of home baked goods to choose from, as well as sandwiches and coffee.

Mrs. Frederick P. Worthen and Mrs. C. Baker Clotworthy are co-chairmen for the sale. Among the many helping to assure its success will be; Mrs. Robert L. V. French, president, Mrs. Julian S. Kaiser, Mrs. Michael B. King, Mrs. Guy B. Howe Jr., Mrs. Edward B. Harris, Mrs. Nicholas D. Rizzo, Mrs. M. V. Kittredge, Mrs. L. J. Roversi, Mrs. Vincent P. Morton, Mrs. Harry Axelrod, Mrs. Eugene A. Bernardin, Mrs. Donald B. Ward, Mrs. John D. McClintock and Mrs. John Fauver.

Members of the corporation have been invited to a preview party, under the direction of Mrs. John Pickering Jr. and Mrs. Ames Stevens, to see the decorations and displays arranged by Mrs. Douglas Byers and Mrs. Peter Coughlan.

Sanborn PTA Activities Are Planned

The ways and means committee of the Sanborn School PTA produced plans for the 1967-68 year at a recent meeting at the home of co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pelrine.

Bake sales will be held again this year during the November and March conferences. Mrs. Roger Hansen will be chairman. A dinner dance has been scheduled for Feb. 10 and the possibility of an International Fun Evening was discussed. The committee hopes to participate in the 1968 Sidewalk Bazaar in June with a balloonsale. Members of Mr. and Mrs. Pelrine's committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Zappala, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bernardin, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Beltracchi and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mansaur.

Great Books Talk
The next discussion meeting of the Fifth Year Great Books group will be at the library at 7:30, Nov. 7 when Dante's INFERNO will be the topic. Do the damned behave like living men in Dante's famous account, and do the sinners in Hell wish to continue their influence in the world? Do the damned believe in God? From Dante's frame of reference, some questions for consideration today arise - If reason is the supreme virtue why doesn't it lead to salvation? Is Hell the final judgment for sinners?

The First Year Great Books group will be meeting at the library at 8 p.m. on Nov. 16 to consider OF CIVIL GOVERNMENT by John Locke. At the time Locke entered Oxford, Cromwell was chancellor and Locke was an indifferent student. Later on he acquired "a

Librarians Meetings

A. J. Anderson met with other eastern Massachusetts head librarians at the Randolph public library to hear a report on position classification. Mrs. Harry Shepherd, audio-visual librarian previewed films for possible purchase by the Massachusetts Film Library Cooperative on Oct. 18 at a meeting of the coop.

A. J. Anderson, acting director, Memorial Hall Library, joined 25 other head librarians at the first Library Executive Development Workshop held at Lord Jeffrey Inn, Amherst, Oct. 17 to 19, under the auspices of the Bureau of Library Extension, Massachusetts Department of Education. Lectures and members' discussions centered on the "human" problems in library administration, on leadership skills and managerial techniques.

Real problems were dealt with by small groups. The in-service activity was funded by the Bureau under the Library Services and Construction Act, Title I.

BUSINESS PROFILESCompact Testing Equipment At Sonotone

You owe it to yourself to have your hearing tested regularly and there is no charge for this service at the Sonotone office, located in the Bay State Building in Lawrence. Mrs. Theresa Manzi Amore, Sonotone's certified Hearing Aid Consultant in the Greater Lawrence area, will give you a complete hearing test. Mrs. Amore, an Andover resident with a daughter at Abbot, has been affiliated with Sonotone, the House of Hearing, for 16 years. During this period, she has brought happiness, through the help of hearing, to hundreds of people.

You may call and make an appointment for a free hearing check-up that can be conducted either in your home or at her

Sonotone office. Then Mrs. Amore will be able to evaluate your loss of hearing immediately and extend to you her expert advice concerning your hearing problem. If you require the attention of an M.D. you will be referred to one at once, or if you prefer you may go to your M.D. first. By prolonging or avoiding a hearing test when you suspect that you have a hearing problem, you are only making the impairment greater and actually depriving yourself of a normal life, not only for yourself but for your loved ones. If you take care of hearing problems early in life you can open up a whole new world for a child. Mrs. Amore treats over 200 babies in the Greater Lawrence area. In fact, children's hearing problems are her specialty. She has been testing the hearing of the children of St. Augustine's School in Andover for the past 14 years. Each child is tested individually. Mrs. Amore also visits and takes care of the elderly in nursing homes and hospitals.

There is no need to continue to suffer from a hearing problem. A hearing defect today is no different than a sight defect. Now, the hearing device is so small you don't even know it is in the ear, yet it can make such a difference in your performance of your work and in your family life. Call 682-4730 for an appointment for a thorough hearing check-up, or visit Mrs. Amore in her Sonotone office, Room 332 in the Bay State Building, Lawrence.

The Romans, the most cruel people to animals in all history, wiped out many species in North Africa where they captured them to be slaughtered for entertainment in their arenas. During the rule of Trajan, 107 A.D., records tell us that 11,000 animals were killed in 123 days.

box, its board chairman, were present to explain the present program at the vocational and technical school, which now has a capacity enrollment. Vocational school officials said they feel that their hoped-for expansion of the 600-pupil school to a core-capacity of 1200 will permit flexibility in the matter of timing a pupil's entry, as well as expansion of the school's program and the admission of girls.

18th Century Paints Ready

Duplicating the original paint colors on buildings was one of the major problems in the restoration of Colonial Williamsburg. The unusual and appealing house paint colors used by Colonial settlers of the 18th century have now been made available for interior and exterior use. Painstaking research in the Williamsburg restoration revealed that many homes and shops there were originally painted in a wide range of warm, earthy colors, upsetting the notion that the typical Colonial American home was a white house with green shutters.

Coincidentally, the newly discovered 18th century colors fit right in with today's trend toward painting homes in soft, rich colors. Exterior paints are now available in 33 authentic Williamsburg colors. Interior colors are in both alkyd flat and satin gloss. The paints are manufactured under license from the Williamsburg Restorations, Inc. and the introduction of the exterior paints marks the first time these historic colors have been available to the public. The products are now available in Andover through the Hill Hardware on Main St.

WILLIAM STEWART, selectman, Andover, is shown with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy at a conference of Massachusetts community officials sponsored by Senator Kennedy in Washington on Oct. 23 and 24. More than 160 local officials attended the conference. They were addressed by Vice President Humphrey, senator Mike Mansfield and a number of Cabinet officials. The conference theme was "Community-Federal Partnership for National Development."

Safety Center Conflict May Be Resolved

The Selectmen seemed close to agreement Tuesday on what to do about construction of the proposed public safety center, but they stopped short of making a decision.

The intention is to consider the question again tonight when the board will be together for a discussion of junior high school housing problems with school and finance officials.

Meeting at noon in the manager's office Tuesday, the Selectmen heard from architects that the combined fire police - fire station can be built for $750,000 as originally designed, or for $580,000 if a scaled down version is accepted. The choice is between a 24,000 sq. ft. building and one of 18,000 sq. ft. These figures include professional fees, but nothing for equipping and furnishing.

Presently available to the board for the project is just $560,000. A total of $190,000 has already been invested in acquisition and preparation of the Main Street site.

Selectman Sidney P. White re-expressed his preference for dispensing with the services of present architects and starting again; Selectman Roger Collins and Philip K. Allen indicated that they would prefer to complete designs, get bids and go to Town Meeting with solid figures; but the majority at one point came close to approving a motion from Selectman Robert A. Watters that bids be sought for the 18,000 sq. ft. building and a complete proposal for all furnishings and equipment be readied for the March Town Meeting.

It is possible that this latter suggestion will attract enough votes to bring a decision tonight.

Lack of pep is often mistaken for patience.

China Policy Is Film Topic

Greater Lawrence Citizens Against the Vietnam War is sponsoring "Conversations on China," a film program, on Wednesday, Nov. 8 at 8 p.m.

The film is a composite of excerpts from discussions by numerous authorities on China and Asia. It will be shown in the meeting room at Memorial Hall Library. Those filmed met recently in Chicago to study China historically, politically and economically and to re-evaluate the present U. S.-China and Asian policy. All residents of the area are invited to attend.
